

Learning Together: Inclusive Evaluation Training

What does the training cover?

Our evaluation training is available in easy-read and plain language and includes the following topics:

- An introduction to evaluation

- Staying safe and being ethical (which means being an honest and fair evaluator)

- Introduction to collecting quantitative data (which means the amount of something, so that data can be counted or added up)
- ...and collecting qualitative data (which means collecting information, for example, from interviews, stories or meetings)

- What to do with the qualitative and quantitative data you collect

- How to share what you've found.

How is the training delivered?

Our evaluation training is delivered as 2-hour sessions.

There is also the option to undertake an intensive course.

The training can be delivered online or in person.

What do others have to say about the training?

"I hated methods before this, it made it interesting and so much easier to understand."

"Having the chance to learn, talk and do evaluation has been great. I have learnt a lot and am using it in other work I am doing."
